The product is a key element in the design and manufacture of square and cylindrical structures, sheet metal and plates, especially used in the building, civil engineering, shipbuilding, and automotive industries. Based on the measured values of the curvature and the wall thickness, the logitrace is used for calculating the bending moment. The logitrace sets out a numerical method that defines the information used in the design of these square profiles and channels. Now you can calculate the depth of the recess in a square profile, length of a spindle, or the orientation of an arch in a square profile. Furthermore, this free version of Logitrace has a set of required functions for engineering and technical drawings, works for Design and Development works for Archiving, and for UML and simulation.
