Category:Computer security Category:Information technology managementModification of rat septal neurons during the ontogeny of lordosis. Daily injections of estradiol benzoate during the perinatal period (days 16-20) significantly reduced lordosis and delayed the onset of copulatory behavior in the young adult female rat. A significant reduction in the amplitude of the lordosis quotient in the adult female was observed only after long-term exposure to estradiol. Removal of the ovaries on day 21 led to a complete reversion of estradiol effects. In control females, axoplasmic transport of [3H]glutamate to the hypothalamus and nuclei of the septum and preoptic area was noted at day 20. In females treated with estradiol benzoate during the perinatal period, axoplasmic transport of [3H]glutamate was increased in all structures examined, with maximum labeling in the medial and posterior parts of the septum and decreased labeling in the medial preoptic area. These results suggest that the septal and preoptic nuclei may be involved in the modulation of lordosis during development and/or during adulthood.A double-blind randomized placebo controlled trial on the effect of a dietary supplement containing high dose chromium, zinc and magnesium on insulin sensitivity in type 2 diabetes mellitus. We investigated the influence of a dietary supplement containing chromium, magnesium and zinc on insulin sensitivity in type 2 diabetic patients. In a double-blind, randomized, placebo controlled, parallel group trial, 16 patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus and evidence of suboptimal insulin sensitivity (Matsuda index All week long we've highlighted the best of our
